Deliberately Crashing Into the Alps

We are constantly being bombarded with the details of the recent crash of the plane in France. The prevailing thought is that the copilot simply set the autopilot, the plane dropped 30,000 feet and crashed into the Alps. That’s all it took—just set the controls, and the rest is history.

There is a tremendous spiritual application of this event to for all of us. While there were obviously no planes in the first century, there were ships. Paul described two men who failed to hold to their faith and failed to respond to their conscience and have “made shipwreck” (1 Tim. 1:19). The King James indicates precisely what happened. It is not that they were in some passive way shipwrecked, the verb is active—they were responsible for the shipwreck. Deliberately crashing a plane into the Alps and wrecking one’s ship faith are active choices individuals make.

There is grave danger in putting our lives on autopilot. The pilot actually knew what would happen when he set the autopilot. After that, he could have done anything he liked and the course was set. Once a plane or a ship is set on its course, the destruction is inevitable. The same is true of our lives. When we know the results of our decisions, yet point our lives in the wrong direction, the end is certain. With our autopilot set, we can live without giving much thought to the outcome.

With our “autopilot” set,
we live without giving thought to the outcome

Is it possible that we are making the same tragic mistake that ended the lives of all those on the plane in France? Is it possible that husbands and wives know that the way they are treating each other will bring unhappiness to the home? Have we selfishly placed other things, even our own wishes, ahead of our mates? We know we are robbing our homes of the blessings God can bring to them, yet have we set our autopilots of behavior in our homes and are headed for trouble?

Is it possible that we have done the same in molding our children or in children honoring parents? Knowing the tragic results of our choices, we have set our autopilots, and we are headed for unmeasurable agony. It will happen as certainly as the crash of the plane in the Alps!

Is it possible we have done the same with our lives? Have we, even though we know the results, allowed our fleshly desires to dominate over our spiritual health? Once the autopilot is set, then we live each day without seeing where we are headed.

There is one other aspect of this to consider. What if we set our autopilots toward heaven? What if we love Him above all others things with all of our hearts and souls? What if we set our course to serve and honor Him above all that is around us? What would be the results?

Think about these matters. What is the autopilot you have set for yourself? Is it time to reprogram your autopilot?

Do you have “a different spirit”?

Caleb was one of the two faithful spies who returned from a 40-day reconnaissance mission into the promised land. After the miserable and faithless report of the ten spies, the Lord condemned them and would not permit them to enter the promised land. However, God was going to bring Caleb into the land, “because he has a different spirit in him” (Num. 14:24). How did Caleb have “a different spirit”?

It may help to first rehearse what kind of spirit the majority of the spies had, from which Caleb had “a different spirit.” The ten faithless spies “gave...a bad report” about “a land that devours its inhabitants,” in which were “men of great stature” and “giants” (13:32-33). Their evaluation was, “We are not able to go up against the people, for they are stronger than we” (13:31). They “complained against Moses” and the Lord (14:2-3) and made the hearts of the people “melt” (Deut. 1:28). But, Caleb had a different spirit!

Caleb had a different spirit, because he focused on the blessings rather than the obstacles. When Caleb spied out the promised land, he saw the exact same thing that the other ten spies saw—fortified cities and giants (13:28, 32-33). BUT, he also saw its fruit and a land flowing with milk and honey (13:27). Rather than focusing on the troubles, he focused on

“My servant
Caleb has a different spirit in him and has followed Me fully”

the joys. Do you have a different spirit, like Caleb?

Caleb had a different spirit, because he saw difficulties as something for God to handle. When Caleb saw the obstacles in the land, he did not see them as a problem for him but a problem for God. He was ready to cast all the cares on God and let God take care of them (cf. 1 Pet. 5:7). Do you have a different spirit, like Caleb?

Caleb had a different spirit, because he trusted in the power and promises of God. When the ten said, “We are not able,” Caleb insisted, “We are well able to overcome it” (13:30-31). God said He was giving them the land, so Caleb trusted God to deliver. Do you have a different spirit, like Caleb?

Caleb had a different spirit, because he knew the Lord was with him. Caleb knew their was no reason to fear, for “the Lord is with us” (14:9). A confident heart can say, “If God is for us, who can be against us?” (Rom. 8:31). Do you have a different spirit, like Caleb?

Caleb had a different spirit, because he heeded the voice of the Lord. The faithless and fearful did not heed the voice of the Lord (14:22), but Caleb had a heart like Paul—“I believe God that it will be just as it was told me” (Acts 17:25).

Caleb had a different spirit in him and followed the Lord fully. What kind of spirit do you have toward the Lord?

The Typical Family

What does the typical family look like? According to a study by the Council of Contemporary Families from September 2014 called, "Family Diversity is the New Normal for America's Children," these are the facts. At the end of the 1950s, if you chose 100 children under age 15 to represent all children, 65 would have been living in a family with married parents, with the father employed and the mother out of the labor force. Only 18 would have had married parents who were both employed. As for other types of family arrangements, you would find only one child in every 350 living with a never-married mother! Today, among 100 representative children, just 22 live in a married male-breadwinner family, compared to 23 living with a single mother (only half of whom have ever been married). Seven out of every 100 live with a parent who cohabits with an unmarried partner (a category too rare for the Census Bureau to consider counting in 1960) and six with either a single father (3) or with grandparents but no parents (3). The single largest group of children (34) live with dual-earner married parents, but that largest group is only a third of the total. So, what the author points out is that what we typically think of as the norm is only true for about one third of the children in the United States.

What do we do? We recognize the challenges that lay before us and apply God's wisdom to our families.

Why is it important to have this information? The concept of family for people coming into the church is going to mean many different things. We can also see the decline of the core family concept and the ideas and moral standards of our society eroding away. But, all is not lost. This is not a doomsday message. No earthly society has been perfect in its portrayal of Christian values.

What do we do? We recognize the challenges that lay before us and apply God's wisdom to our families. Ephesians 5 and Colossians 3 are two chapters that are key in helping us in our families. Colossians 3 specifically outlines core Christian values then shows how to apply those in the family. Colossians 3:12-17 highlights those positive values that should be manifested in our lives—compassion, kindness, gentleness, humility, patience, forgiveness, love, teaching and admonishing. All these things then need to be applied to wives, husbands, children and fathers (Col. 3:18-21). Imagine a family where these character traits are encouraged and exemplified. Then, imagine the kind of legacy they could leave for their children and grandchildren.

Each one of us has a part to play in a family. For we are all sons and daughters of someone. More importantly, we are all sons and daughters of the Most High. It is He who has prepared a legacy for us.

"Wise in what is good and innocent in what is evil"

Paul's desire for the church in Rome was his desire for the church everywhere. His desire for the church should be our desire for the church. It should be our desire for the younger people and the older people of the church. It should be our desire for our homes, for our children, for our grandchildren, for our entire family.

The church in Rome had done well in obeying the gospel, and now they needed to continue their progress. "I want you to be wise in what is good and innocent in what is evil" (Rom. 16:19). He had earlier said, "Abhor what is evil. Cling to what is good" (12:9). He had elsewhere written, "Hold fast what is good. Abstain from every form of evil" (1 Thess. 5:21-22).

When it comes to goodness, we need to learn it, study it, emulate it and hold on to it. But, when it comes to evil, we need to not only abhor it and abstain from it, we need to keep ourselves free from it, unacquainted with it, unmixed with it, uninterested in it! Is this your desire, too? – DS

1 of 7 connections

John said, "I have no greater joy than to hear that my children walk in truth" (3 John 4). If that is the "greatest joy," what would be the "worst sorrow"? Would he say, "I have no greater sorrow than to hear that my children do not walk in truth"? I cannot think of anything worse than that!

Much discussion has taken place over the years about how we can do a better job of keeping our young people faithful after they graduate and move on into adulthood. The answer, statistically, has NOT been found in bigger youth groups, more exciting youth activities and more enthusiastic worship services. The answer has been much more personal than that!

Some research has found that those young people who have seven meaningful "connections" to the church (apart from the youth program), through intergenerational relationships with church members, have been the ones most likely to remain faithful as Christian adults. Will you be one of the seven connections our youth need to make it to heaven? They need you! – DS
