God Loves People With “Pierced Ears”

Sometimes, we sing a song in which we ask God to take us to His door and pierce our ear. We finish by telling Him that we never want to be a free man. What could this possibly mean? It is imperative that we “sing with the spirit and the understanding” (1 Cor. 14:15), but what is your understanding about what you are saying when you ask God to pierce your ear?

The background of this song is found in Exodus chapter twenty-one. The Jews were allowed to purchase another Jew as a slave, but after seven years, he had to be released from his servitude. However, during those seven years, the master of that slave could have been so kind and benevolent that the slave would not want to leave his master. His life as a slave was so much better than what it was before he was bought—he simply did not want to leave.

Thus the Lord said, “If the servant plainly says, ‘I love my master, my wife, and my children; I will not go out free.’” The servant was then to be brought before the judges of the city and taken to the door and “his master shall pierce his ear with an awl, and he shall serve him forever.” Slavery can involve tortious service with an evil master, but when one has a kind, compassionate master, his life is totally different. He gladly becomes a slave because he loves his master.

Take time today to stand before His mirror and see if you have pierced ears

Jesus is our kind, benevolent and compassionate master. That is why Paul often described himself as a bondservant of the Lord. That is why Paul described the choice we must make as either choosing the bondage of sin with all its attendant evil or to willingly give our all to our Master (Rom. 6:16-23). That is also why we sing together asking Him to pierce our ears—we want to serve Him forever.

As a preschool child, I learned a song in Bible class which gave the same kind of message to me. “I washed my hands this morning, so very clean and bright; and lent them up to Jesus to work for Him till night.” Before I was old enough to attend school, I sang this song promising Him that I would work for Him. (Google this song to hear children as young as two singing this life-changing song). Now, as an adult, I sing another song which even more vividly describes the devotion we must all have to our Master. I now ask Him to take me to His door and to “pierce my ear.”

The question each of us should consider is, “Have we stood before His door?” “Pierced ears” proclaim total surrender to the Master. Our time, our energy, our money, our lives and all we have belongs to Him. So, why not take time today to read those verses in Exodus 21, then meditate how they apply to your life. Then, stand before the mirror of His word and see if your ears have been pierced.

Which Bible Do You Have?

There are so many different Bibles available today. Do you have one of those “baby Bibles”? The one that is light blue or pink or white and is small enough to fit into a baby’s hand. Those are precious and are a great way for young children to learn to love the Bible. Do you have one of those pocket-sized or checkbook-sized Bibles? Sometimes it’s the entire Bible, and sometimes it’s just the New Testament. Those are convenient editions to take with you anywhere you go. Do you have one of those handy-sized Bibles? It’s not too big and not too small. It’s a handy size to carry to worship or to a Bible study. Do you have one of those large-print Bibles? They often come in “large,” “giant” and “super-giant” print. They’re easier on the eyes, but maybe not as easy to carry. Do you have one of those study Bibles, reference Bibles, analytical Bibles? Those usually provide very helpful aids in studying various topics that are developed throughout the Bible. There is great variety in these types of Bibles, and careful Bible students will use them with caution, remembering that notes in the margins are put there by men. The variety of Bibles thus far discussed does not even begin to touch the abundance of what is available, including compact Bibles, devotional Bibles, parallel Bibles, chronological Bibles, Bibles for teens, Bibles for women, Bibles for children, etc.

Is it a well-worn, marked-up, been-through-a-lot Bible?

Now, what’s the point of all of this? There is definitely a wide variety of Bibles available today, but when you get beyond “what kind” it is and “what features” it might have, what kind do you have? There is one type of Bible out there called the “Open Bible.” It doesn’t really matter if you have that name (“Open Bible”) printed on the spine of your Bible; what matters is that you open your Bible! There is one type of Bible out there called a “Study Bible.” Again, it doesn’t really matter if you have that name (“Study Bible”) printed on the spine of your Bible; what matters is that you study your Bible! There is one type of Bible out there called a “Daily Bible.” It doesn’t matter if you have that name printed on the spine of your Bible; what matters is that you spend time daily with your Bible! There is one type of Bible out there called a “Life Application Bible.” Even if that is not printed on the spine of your Bible, what matters is that you make application to your life every time you study your Bible!

Sometimes we place a lot of emphasis on “what kind” of car we drive or “what kind” of clothes we wear or “what kind” of food we eat, etc. However, what really matters is, “What kind of Bible do you have?” Is it an open, study, daily, life application Bible? Is it a well-worn, marked-up, been-through-a-lot Bible? With all that is happening around us in our country today, we need to make sure we’re getting into our Bibles and that the Bible is getting into us!

“Don’t judge me!”

There is a famous movie where a villainous character uses the word inconceivable, a lot. On one of those occasions, one of his hired men says, “You keep using that word. I don’t think it means what you think it means.” I believe the same is true for judge, or more specifically the phrase, “Don’t judge.” It usually happens when someone does something or is about to do something that could cause those around them to look poorly upon them. The end result is that any form of criticism or correction is seen as “passing judgment.” Those people are quick to point out that judgment is a sin because Jesus said so.

While they may not know that it is found in Matthew 7:1, Jesus did say, “Do not judge so that you will not be judged.” Is that what He meant? Did Jesus intend for us not to make any moral discernment? I don’t think so. Let’s put this verse in its context. Jesus is nearing the end of the sermon on the mount (Matthew 5-7) when He mentions judgment. He is helping people to reshape their hearts and concepts of the established righteousness religiosity of the day. “For I say to you that unless your righteousness surpasses that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will not enter the kingdom of heaven” (Matt. 5:20). In the immediate context, he is dealing with hypocrites (Matt. 7:5). The scribes and Pharisees were the ones who He was addressing. They were trying to correct everyone else’s sin without realizing they had a whole board in their own eye (Matt. 7:3-5). The parallel account of this in Luke 6 sheds some light on the subject. “Be merciful, just as your Father is merciful. Do not judge, and you will not be judged; and do not condemn, and you will not be condemned; pardon, and you will be pardoned” (Luke 6:36-37). Mercy was the issue. The religious of the time were pointing out the faults of others without realizing that they were in the same or worse situation. Being completely blinded by the plank in their own eyes, they were in no condition to help others. However, if they could remove theirs first, they would understand a great truth. “For all have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God” (Rom. 3:23). With this great understanding, you can have mercy on those who are in sin because you were there once also. That is why we have Galatians 6:1-2, “Brethren, even if anyone is caught in any trespass, you who are spiritual, restore such a one in a spirit of gentleness; each one looking to yourself, so that you too will not be tempted. Bear one another’s burdens, and thereby fulfill the law of Christ.”

So, to those who are using Matthew 7:1 out of context to feel better about themselves, it doesn’t mean what you think it means. To those who are quick to pass harsh unrighteous judgement, remember there is One that will judge you.

“You keep using that word. I don’t think it means what you think it means.”

Don’t be mean!

Do you know any mean people? Has anyone been mean to you lately? Doesn’t it just stink and ruin your day when people are mean to you? Next question: Are you ever mean to others? I’m not talking about being firm or standing by your convictions or exercising proper discipline. I’m talking about being downright and unjustifiably mean to someone.

God tells us that agape love (the Christian love that is unconditional, unselfish and looks out for what is best for others) “does not behave rudely” (NKJV) or “act unbecomingly” (NASB) (1 Cor. 13:4-5). Can you picture Jesus being mean? Can you picture Jesus behaving rudely or acting unbecomingly? No! You can’t. Because He wasn’t! Firm? Yes! Mean or rude? No!

When people were mean to Jesus, He was not mean in return (1 Pet. 2:22-23). He did not retaliate and we must learn not to retaliate! When mean people are mean to you, don’t be mean back to them! And, just don’t be mean in the first place! Be like Jesus! – DS

“Let God do what seems good to Him!”

Young Samuel found himself in a tough position. The Lord revealed to him that He was going to bring punishment upon the house of Eli for the iniquity of his sons, which Eli allowed to go unrestrained. The next morning, Eli asked Samuel what the Lord spoke to him. At his mentor’s bidding, “Samuel told him everything, and hid nothing from him” (1 Sam. 3:18).

If you were Eli and learned that the Lord was going to punish your children, how would you respond? Would you cry out, “That’s not fair! Leave them alone!”? Would you exclaim, “What kind of God is this? I thought God was all about love and forgiveness! This is unacceptable!”?

Note carefully the wisdom of Eli’s response. “It is the Lord. Let Him do what seems good to Him” (3:18). Can we not have that same humility, that same trust, that same submission, that same wisdom? Rather than argue with the Lord, with His Word, with His commands or with His expectations, let us trust Him! “It is the Lord. Let Him do what seems good to Him!” – DS
