Dealing With the Mistakes of 2015

One of the unseen blessings of memorizing Scripture is that doing this opens the door to our souls. Solomon showed this when he said that a man is what he thinks in his heart (Prov. 23:7). What is perhaps even more remarkable is that what we memorized when we were children is so much a part of what we are today. We all know about what happened to Jack and Jill, Little Miss Muffet and the Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe. We owe a tremendous debt to those who helped us learn spiritual truths when we were so much younger.

I am not sure what teacher required that I memorize the opening stanza of a poem which I can so easily recall now six decades after I learned it. It was written by Lolita Hiroshi (I did not memorize her name, but found it on Google), but the moral truth found in it still impacts my life.

*I wish that there were some wonderful place
Called the Land of Beginning Again,
Where all our mistakes and all our heartaches
Could be dropped like a shabby old coat at the door,
And never be on again.*

The reality is that such a place does exist. That land of beginning again is found in Christ. His grace is so amazing that

He allows us to bury all the mistakes of the past and then to begin again. Paul said, "If anyone in Christ he is a new creation" (2 Cor. 5:17). That old man is crucified and buried in baptism, and we are raised to walk in newness of life (Rom. 6:3-6). Mistakes of the past are gone and laid aside like an old garment, and we clothe ourselves in Christ-like apparel.

This truth is vividly described in Paul's description of those in Corinth. Before becoming Christians, they were fornicators, idolaters, adulterers, homosexuals, sodomites, thieves, covetous, drunkards, revilers and extortioners. There was no way, living that way, they could inherit the kingdom of God. But, Paul described what happened when they became Christians. "But you were washed...sanctified...justified (1 Cor. 6:9-11). They entered the "Land of Beginning Again."

That same beginning is still available for those who have become Christians and made foolish mistakes. John says that the blood of Jesus cleanses us also (1 John 1:7). The Lord continues to see us a without spot, wrinkle and without a single blemish (Eph. 5:27). With humble hearts we can live each day in the "Land of Beginning Again."

So, as this new year begins, let's take time to have an honest look at changes we can make. With His help every wrong can be made right. Memorize His words about the "land" in which we live. Write them on your soul, today!

As this new year begins, let's take time to have an honest look at ourselves

Are You Approachable?

As Christians, we are "members of one another" (Rom. 12:5), and we have very specific responsibilities to each other. Our Father expects us to "greet one another," "edify one another," "comfort one another," "submit to one another," "serve one another," "bear one another's burdens" and "confess [our] trespasses to one another" (Rom. 16:16; 14:19; 1 Thess. 4:18; 1 Pet. 5:5; Gal. 5:13; 6:2; Jas. 5:16). Think about these words and consider this key quality that you must possess for these things to be possible—you must be approachable! Think about it!

How can others greet you, edify you, comfort you, submit to you, serve you, bear your burdens or confess trespasses to you, if you are not approachable? It would be impossible! Every Christian, without exception, must be approachable, and some (like preachers and elders) must be even more so. So, a critical question for you to consider is this, "Am I approachable?" Are people comfortable in coming to me, talking to me, being around me? Or, are they hesitant to approach me, feeling uneasy, uncertain or awkward? I must honestly evaluate myself!

Jesus was the most approachable person who ever lived, therefore, He is the perfect standard by which we should measure ourselves.

Being approachable requires humility. Arrogance is such a deterrent, but Jesus, the Son of God, "humbled Himself" (Phil. 2:8). Am I humble, truly humble?

Being approachable requires compassion. When one's heart is moved, one will be moved to appropriate and loving action, as Jesus was (Matt. 9:36). Am I compassionate, truly compassionate?

Being approachable requires friendliness.

Jesus was friendly, even to those who were not friendly toward Him (John 4:9), and even took time for little children (Matt. 19:13-15). Am I friendly?

Being approachable requires openness.

Jesus opened Himself up to the point that anyone could approach Him at any time about any matter (Matt. 9). Am I open and available to my brethren?

Being approachable requires trustworthiness. People opened up to Jesus about their darkest troubles, because they knew He could be trusted. Am I truly trustworthy?

Being approachable requires a willingness to help.

People who followed Jesus and heard about Jesus knew that, if nothing else was true about Him, He was willing to help people out. Am I truly (and obviously) willing to help?

To properly obey the "one another" commands of God, I must be approachable! How would Jesus grade me?

Are people comfortable in coming to me, talking to me, being around me?

I Am Adopted

I watched a video recently of a boy opening a gift, and it reminded me of God. As the boy opened the gift and realized what it was, emotion rolled over him. His shoulders dropped, his eyes filled up with tears, and he hugged his new mom and dad. He had been adopted. He held tightly in his hands ordinary paper with a message that changed his life. He would no longer be a child of the system or bounce from foster home to foster home. Nor would he go to sleep each night with uncertainty, longing anxiously to have what other children have—parental love and stability.

Belonging and being loved are fundamental human desires. These are two things that children in the system want most. When a family finally says, “We love you and want you, just as if you were born to us.” What joy and peace. That trust can begin to be repaired. A child that felt like nobody wanted them can begin to have the security that everything will truly be okay, my mom and dad love me.

Belonging and being loved are fundamental human desires that God has fulfilled in His relationship with us. This is how it is described in Romans 8:14-17, “For all who are being led by the Spirit of God, these are sons of God. For you have not received a spirit of slavery leading to fear again, but you have received a spirit of adoption as sons by which we cry out, ‘Abba! Father!’ The Spirit Himself testifies with our spirit that we are children of God, and if children, heirs also, heirs of God and fellow heirs with Christ, if indeed we suffer with Him so that we may also be glorified with Him.”

We who are being led by the Spirit have been adopted by God out of sin into coheirship with Christ the Son. That is to say, that the revelation of the Spirit of God in the Bible is the guiding and ruling authority in our lives. We have a relation with God that allows us to cry out, “Father, Father,” just as Christ did in the garden that night of anguish (Mark 14:36). When we put on Christ in baptism (Gal. 3:27), we begin to look like Him. We are given new clothes (Rev. 3:5). We are given a new name (Rev. 3:12). In every aspect of our lives, we are to imitate our Father, “as beloved children” (Eph. 5:1). You are loved and belong to Him.

The next time you pick up the Bible, remember that you are holding your adoption papers—the message that can change your life no matter what your past was or where you come from. Remember also, “He who is faithful has promised,” and everything He has promised will come to pass (Heb. 10:23; 1 Thess. 5:24) You can rest at the end of the day knowing truly everything will be okay, your Heavenly Father loves you. He will never leave you nor forsake you (Heb. 13:5).

We have been adopted by God out of sin into coheirship with Christ the Son.

Can someone worship God and not be right with Him?

When Paul came to the city of Philippi in Acts 16, he found Lydia by the riverside outside the city. She was a woman from Thyatira “who worshiped God” (Acts 16:14). Let me ask you a question: If you found someone “who worshiped God,” would you think, “This person is ok...No need for me to talk to them about salvation...They’re already worshiping God”? What if Paul had thought that about Lydia? Would she have been saved? The answer is, “No!”

Paul went down by the riverside and “spoke” the gospel to the women who were there (16:13). “The Lord opened [Lydia’s] heart to heed the things spoken by Paul,” and so “she and her household were baptized” for the remission of their sins (16:14-15). If she had been right with God, then there was no need for her to hear the gospel plan of salvation or “heed” it. However, she was not right with God, even though she worshiped Him, and she needed to be saved.

Worshiping God isn’t what makes one right with Him—obeying His gospel is! – DS

“If you worship me, it will all be yours!”

Many have turned to God upon the promise that if they will believe in Him and praise Him that He will bless them with great riches and abundance. It is commonly assumed by many that Christians should have the best health and the greatest wealth, for that is the promise.

Here’s the problem with that philosophy: No such promise is found anywhere in the New Testament! The “Health and Wealth Gospel” has its origin in the hearts of televangelists who want to get rich themselves, rather than finding its origin in God. God’s promise is simple:

“Seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness” (Matt. 6:33), and “God shall supply all your need” (Phil. 4:19). Notice the promise is for the basic necessities of life—not affluence.

Someone says, “But I thought there was a verse in the Bible that said, ‘If you worship me, it will all be yours!’” They’re right! There certainly is! Read Luke 4:6-7 to find where that promise originated. When you’ve found it, let’s put our focus back on serving the one true God...for His good and not our own! – DS

Who's Your Friend?

by Gregory Alan Tidwell

(Editor, Gospel Advocate)

"A friend to all is a friend to none," observed Aristotle, for friendship implies commitment and loyalty.

A deception of friendship, faked for selfish advantage, nauseates. Judas betraying Jesus with a kiss leaves us cold.

As it is in our relationships with men, so it is in our relationship with God. "You adulterous people!" James 4:4 warns, "Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God? Therefore whoever wishes to be a friend of the world makes himself an enemy of God."

Friendship With the World

We should fear becoming God's enemy. "And do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul." Jesus warned in Matthew 10:28, "Rather fear him who can destroy both soul and body in hell."

God, who is rich in mercy, is also a God of wrath and judgment. While we like to focus on God's loving grace, we must remain biblically balanced and remember the fate of the ungodly. "It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God" (Hebrews 10:31).

How, then, do we become a friend to the world and, thus, an enemy of God?

A Measured Morality

We become a friend to the world when political correctness tempers our preaching and teaching. Today, the party line of Western culture is open-ended inclusion. Political correctness dictates nothing be said or done to offend any of a broad assortment of protected groups.

This social trend has caused many strange distortions in the church, notably has an ever-widening range of sexual deviants enjoys a protected minority status. Even as the world becomes more and more depraved, we measure our comments to avoid offending the ungodly.

Making concessions to political correctness will make us an enemy of God.

Idols of Entertainment

We become a friend to the world when sports and amusement control how we approach the work and worship of the church. Sometimes the most dangerous compromises are when we permit doing things that are not wrong to become an enemy of doing what is right.

Yes, there are judgment calls we all must make, and amusement is not evil in and of itself. But how much accommodation should we make to the passions of sports and entertainment? Do we dare encourage Christians to forgo entertainment to be God's friend?

Recognizing we function in a world dominated by secular concerns, we must realize there is a point where accommodation to the secular schedule of events is unfaithfulness to the Lord. Placing higher priority on amusement than on faithful service will make us an enemy of God.

Where Is Our Treasure?

We become a friend to the world when we permit social prominence and affluence to set the agenda for our lives.

Success is not a bad thing. The Bible tells us of many people who enjoyed both material success and God's approval. The problem comes when we let material success drive our lives. We need to remember the words of the Savior: "Therefore do not be anxious, saying, 'What shall we eat?' or 'What shall we drink?' or 'What shall we wear?' For the Gentiles seek after all these things, and your heavenly Father knows that you need them all. But seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things will be added to you" (Matthew 6:31-33).

Permitting social prominence and material abundance to guide our lives will make us an enemy of God.

The Danger of Moderate Faithfulness

The "golden mean" is an ideal found in many cultures, but it is not Christian. While we are called to moderate our pursuit of selfish and worldly things, our passion for godliness must never be diluted with an admixture of ungodliness.

Members of the Lord's church must avoid keeping one foot in the world. Our devotion to God and to His standard of righteousness should know no bounds. A moderated faithfulness is merely a measured betrayal.
