A Land Being Destroyed By Lack of Knowledge

As the book of Judges closes, the future of Israel is so dismal. It had been that way for hundreds of years. Centuries before, the Jews had entered a land which flowed with milk and honey. Under the leadership of Joshua, they had conquered thirty-one kingdoms (Josh. 12:24). They could have had more if they had conquered the nations on their southern and northern borders.

God had blessed them. "The Lord gave to Israel all the land of which He had sworn to give to their fathers, and they took possession of it and dwelt in it" (Josh. 21:43). Two verses later, the Holy Spirit says, "Not a word failed of any good thing which the lord had spoken to the house of Israel. All came to pass." The future outlook was so glorious.

As you read the book of Judges, you cannot fail to see how dismal the situation had become. How had all of this come about? To answer that question might help us understand what is happening in our land right before our eyes!

The generation which entered the Promised Land was so different from the preceding one. Their fathers had left Egypt and, even before crossing the Red Sea, they murmured, failing to remember what God had just done. They crossed the Red Sea and, before arriving at Mt. Sinai, complained about the lack of water and food. He gave them water out of the rock and over 12,000 days of free food from heaven. They then complained for the next forty years until the death of Moses.

That second generation was so much better. They knew God and obeyed Him. From the time they entered Canaan, they worshiped him. The Bible describes it this way, "So the people served the Lord all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders who outlived Joshua...another generation arose after them who did not know the Lord nor His work" (Judg. 1:7-10).

How did they leave God? They failed to listen to Moses. "The words which I command you today shall be in your heart. You shall teach them to your children..." (Deut. 6:7). The situation came about because they failed to teach their children!

The very same thing is happening in America. Our fathers knew the Bible. They knew about seventy-one men in the Bible whose thumbs and big toes were cut off; the dead man who as he was being quickly buried and came alive again; the king whose skull was crushed by a stone throw at him by a woman; fields of grain which were burned by foxes; the woman on the moon; the floating iron axe head; the man who killed a lion when it was snowing. They taught us about God and what He has done. What have we done? Look at the list above. Do your children know these things? Do you? Think!

Our fathers knew the Bible and the lessons taught by each story. Do we know it?

One Dozen Verses Every Parent Needs

The toughest job in the world is being a responsible parent. When a mom or dad realizes the child they are raising is "a heritage from the Lord" (Psa. 127:3), it emphasizes all the more the seriousness of what they are doing in raising that child.

There are many Bible passages that specifically address the topic of parenting, but there are also numerous godly principles throughout Scripture that have ready-made application for parents today. While the specific context of these passages may not be addressing parenting, consider how each of these apply to and should, therefore, guide your task of being a mother or father.

God's principles for Christian living can help every parent in their task.

1. Matthew 6:33—"Seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness."

2. Matthew 5:16—"Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father in heaven."

3. 1 Timothy 4:12—"Be an example of the believers in word, in conduct, in love, in spirit, in faith, in purity."

4. 2 Timothy 4:2—"Preach the word! Be ready in season and out of season. Convince, rebuke, exhort, with all long-suffering and teaching."

5. Romans 10:17—"So then faith comes by hearing, and hearing by the word of God."

6. Proverbs 3:5-6—"Trust in the Lord with all your heart..."

7. Luke 18:1—"They ought always to pray and not lose heart."

8. Titus 2:12—"Teaching us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly in the present age."

9. Titus 3:1-2—"Remind them to be subject to rulers and authorities, to obey, to be ready for every good work, to speak evil of no one, to be peaceable, gentle, showing all humility to all men."

10. Hebrews 10:25—"Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together..."

11. 1 Thessalonians 5:14—"Warn [the] unruly, comfort the fainthearted, uphold the weak, be patient with all."

12. Galatians 5:9—"A little leaven leavens the whole lump."

This list could be multiplied a hundredfold, for God's principles for Christian living can help every parent in their task of bringing up their children in the way they should go. May God help us, through His word, to return His heritage to Him!

“There is a pestilence upon this land, nothing is sacred.” - R.S.

We are all seeing it happen. It appears that the moral standards in today’s society are in an ever-increasing downward spiral. However, the truth is that in the ebb and flow of man’s moral consciousness there have always been peaks and valleys in moral standards. It is evident that we may be approaching another valley. With every digression from God’s moral standard, there have always been groups of people that hold to God’s unchanging standard and stand in the gap, rather than get to a point when what was once deplorable is now acceptable.

Daniel Bell, a teacher of sociology at Harvard University, wrote in his book, The Coming of Post-industrial Society, “The lack of a rooted moral belief system is the cultural contradiction of the society, the deepest challenge to its survival.” We are in a society that has lost its moral backbone and has replaced it with moral subjectivism and secular humanist ideals. Moral subjectivism is the idea that there is no system of absolute right or wrong. This means that one cannot say to Mr. X, “You are wrong” or “You are right,” because one cannot impose upon him any system of moral beliefs. It is left up to the individual to decide what is right and wrong. “Here is a simple but profound rule: If there are no absolutes by which to judge society (or individuals), then society (or the individual) is the absolute” (How Then Should We Live, Schaeffer, 224). This is a far cry from, “This is My beloved Son: hear Him” (Luke 9:35), and the authority that is given to Christ (Eph. 1:20-23).

The humanist manifesto is void of religious thought and godly reasoning. Inside the front cover of every secular humanist magazine, Free Inquiry, there is a list of 21 “Affirmations of Humanism.” Here is a sample, “We affirm humanism as a realistic alternative to theologies of despair and ideologies of violence and as a source of rich personal significance and genuine satisfaction in the service to others.” This is very prominent in our society and it is common to experience people using this language. It has a big voice in the media, so people are becoming indoctrinated with these thoughts, and children are taught this in schools, “We do not believe that any particular sect (religion) can claim important values as their exclusive property; hence it is the duty of public education to deal with these values” (Council for Secular Humanism, 1980). The humanist movement has been an influential force in getting God out of the public eye. We need to understand these are people groping in the dark trying to understand life and the world around them with their own reasoning. “O LORD, I know that the way of man is not in himself: it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps” (Jer. 10:23). With this on our hearts, the duty to teach and be examples of the Gospel message is all the more important.

The Gospel message is all the more important.

Whatever happened to integrity?

We live in such a selfish, immoral and cowardly society that the very concept of integrity is offensive to some. An honest person who holds a firm adherence to moral and ethical principles has now become a target and a laughingstock in many places. As a result, principled people are being pressured to compromise or, at the very least, to be quiet.

It would do us well to remember how God revered two of His faithful servants, David and Job. “...Walk before Me as your father David walked, in integrity of heart and in uprightness...” (1 Kgs. 9:4). “Have you considered My servant Job...still he holds fast to his integrity” (Job 2:3).

Could God make the same evaluation of you? Are you a Christian of strong, enduring integrity? “The integrity of the upright will guide them, but the perversity of the unfaithful will destroy them...The righteous man walks in his integrity; His children are blessed after him...Better is the poor who walks in his integrity than one perverse in his ways” (Prov. 11:3; 20:7; 28:6). – DS

Had any opportunities today?

How many “opportunities” come your way every day? You might ask, “Opportunities for what?” How many “occasions” come your way every day? Again, you might ask, “Occasions for what?” How many “times” come your way every day? Once more, you might ask, “Times for what?”

Christians have been given clear instructions, “Therefore, as we have opportunity, let us do good to all, especially to those who are of the household of faith” (Gal. 6:10). Robertson translates this comparative clause as, “As we have occasion at any time.” When do “opportunities” or “occasions” come your way?

They come at any time! They come all the time!

Would you say that once a month would be often enough to fulfill, “As we have opportunity at any time, let us do good”? Would you say that once a week would be often enough? Or, do you believe that our Father provides us with multiple daily opportunities to do good, especially to our brethren in Christ? So, how many opportunities have come your way today? – DS
