Does It Really Make a Difference?

Have you ever considered what difference it makes to the driver who ignores the signs at the four-way stop? The fact the signs are there makes no difference in his life. The same is true of the laws about speed limits, wearing seat belts, and dimming headlights to oncoming traffic. The laws have no impact on that person who chooses to ignore them.

Now think about this. The fact that Jesus came makes no difference in the life of that person who chooses to ignore His presence on the earth.

What difference does it make if Jesus was born of a virgin in Bethlehem? To those who are seeking to find God, the birth of Jesus announced the beginning of God’s eternal plan for mankind. But to that person who makes no changes in his life, it makes no difference. Jesus might as well not have been born.

What difference does it make if Jesus ever taught any lessons at all? So what if He taught about morality, marriage, self-control, dealing with enemies, prayer, the abundant life and the resurrection? He might as well have never said a single word—if one chooses to ignore Him.

What difference does it make if Jesus showed His deity by undeniable miracles? Even if He had healed every sick person on this earth, fed all mankind with loaves and fish and emptied every tomb on planet earth, it would make no difference to that person who chooses to ignore such manifestations of heaven’s power. As far as that person is concerned, Jesus wasted His time in every miracle.

What difference does it make if Jesus was raised from the dead? The empty tomb—the ultimate manifestation of His deity—has no meaning to those who ignore Him. His enemies arrested Him, mocked Him, beat Him without mercy, and took His life. So what? Let those accounts of His life close with a lifeless body hanging on a cross—so what? It makes no difference.

What difference does it make—look at the real difference the events make. Ignore every event of His life, pretend they did not happen, consciously choose to ignore reality—yet, one truth remains—Jesus lives! He lived, He died, He was raised and He lives eternally!

God did not just raise Him, He highly exalted Him above all creation. God gave Him all authority in heaven and on this earth. God has appointed a day when He will judge the world by the one He raised from the dead. All mankind will be raised to give account for the decisions they have made on this earth. You can ignore His birth, His teaching, His miracles and His resurrection—temporarily. On that final day, these things are all that matter. Do not be so foolish as to ignore Him.

You can ignore His birth, teachings and miracles—but only temporarily

“Does Your Church?” (Part 4)—The Organization of the Church

There is only one church (Eph. 4:4; 1:22-23; 2:16), and that one church finds its origin in God, not man (Isa. 2:2-4; Dan. 2:44; Matt. 16:18; Acts 20:28). Those points are inarguable. So, when it comes to how that church is organized, we should expect that there is only one organizational structure that is acceptable and that it comes from God Himself.

The Lord established His church to exist in autonomous (i.e., independent) local congregations. Each of these congregations is to be structured in exactly the same way, and the interesting thing is that God did not design any organizational structure higher than the local congregation. There is one “head” over the whole church, and that is Christ (Eph. 5:23; Col. 1:18). As the single authority over every congregation, Christ alone has the authority to command (Matt. 28:18) how the church is to operate (1 Tim. 3:15).

The local congregation of the Lord’s church is to be overseen by a group of elders. The divine design for the church involved having [1] a plurality of men (Acts 14:23; Phil. 1:1), [2] who met specific qualifications (1 Tim. 3:1-7; Tit. 1:5-9), [3] to be appointed “over” the local congregation (1 Thess. 5:12) [4] “among” whom they themselves had been a member (Acts 20:28; 1 Pet. 5:2), [5] in order to “shepherd,” “oversee,”

“steward,” “take care of” and “lead” the church (Acts 20:28; 1 Pet. 5:2; Tit. 1:7; 1 Tim. 3:5; Heb. 13:17), in order that [6] each member might remain faithful and enter into heaven (Heb. 13:17; Acts 20:28-30). Scripture never speaks of or approves one “pastor” leading a church, but it always draws attention to a group of “pastors” (elders) overseeing each congregation.

The local congregation of the Lord’s church is to be served by a group of deacons. The divine design for the church involved having [1] a plurality of men (Phil. 1:1), [2] who met specific qualifications (1 Tim. 3:8-13), [3] to take on specific tasks assigned to them (Acts 6:1-6) and [4] to “serve well” in those capacities (1 Tim. 3:13), in order that the church might grow (Eph. 4:16) and that overseers might be able to “give themselves” to their responsibilities (cf. Acts 6:4).

The local congregation of the Lord’s church needs to have an evangelist to preach the gospel. The divine design for the church involved having a [1] man (1 Tim. 2:1-14), who could [2] preach “the whole counsel of God” (Acts 20:27; 2 Tim. 4:2), [3] defend the faith (1 Tim. 1:3-4; 4:1-16), [4] build up the local church (1 Cor. 14:3) and [5] train men to serve in the church (2 Tim. 2:2; 1 Tim. 3:1-13).

How is your church organized? The church of Christ patterns its organizational structure according to the one specified in the New Testament. Does your church?

There is only one organizational structure that is acceptable to God.

Behold, How Great a Love That Would Adopt Even Me

About 135,000 children are adopted each year in the United States. Of those 135,000, 59 percent are from the foster care system, 26 percent are from other countries and 15 percent are voluntarily relinquished for adoption. According to the 2014 adoption statistics, 50,644 children were adopted from the foster care system. There are over 100,000 still waiting to be adopted each year. The average age of those waiting for adoption, for a home, is 7 years. Say what you will about the system, but there is a great need for adoption. There would be an even greater need if mothers would choose adoption over abortion.

Did you know that you have been adopted? God’s message to us is that we are adopted and heirs. “For all who are being led by the Spirit of God, these are sons of God. For you have not received a spirit of slavery leading to fear again, but you have received a spirit of adoption as sons by which we cry out, ‘Abba! Father!’ The Spirit Himself testifies with our spirit that we are children of God, and if children, heirs also, heirs of God and fellow heirs with Christ, if indeed we suffer with Him so that we may also be glorified with Him” (Rom. 8:14-17). The New Testament refers to those who are obedient to God through Christ as children. Did you ever stop to think how we are His children? We are not like the Christ who dwelt with Him from the beginning.

You are children and heirs of the most high God.

God does not refer to us as the firstborn. We are His through adoption because of the sacrifice of Jesus. We are not children by birth, as those that were born through Abraham, but rather children of promise (Rom. 9:8). As Hosea prophesied, “Yet the number of the sons of Israel Will be like the sand of the sea, Which cannot be measured or numbered; And in the place Where it is said to them, ‘You are not My people,’ It will be said to them, ‘You are the sons of the living God’” (1:10).

Consider this when you read “children of God.” It is referring to you as adopted. Not only adopted but adopted with an inheritance. God says that we are co-heirs with Christ, that we will be glorified with Him, and that we are siblings of the Jesus through faith and obedience to God. “See how great a love the Father has bestowed on us, that we would be called children of God; and such we are. For this reason the world does not know us, because it did not know Him. Beloved, now we are children of God, and it has not appeared as yet what we will be. We know that when He appears, we will be like Him, because we will see Him just as He is...By this the children of God and the children of the devil are obvious: anyone who does not practice righteousness is not of God, nor the one who does not love his brother” (1 John 3:1-2, 10).

You are children and heirs of God. There is a great need for this adoption. Tell the world they have a Father.

“...And for what we haven’t done”

A man stood behind the podium and led the congregation in prayer during the morning worship assembly. There was nothing unusual about his prayer. It was truly worshipful in every way. But, there was something about the way he said a certain phrase that made it stick. Again, the phrase was not anything new. But, he gave it a little added emphasis with his inflection.

“Help us, Lord, to remember that one day we will all stand before Jesus and give an account for what we have done...and for what we haven’t done.”

When most people think about the day of judgment, they probably think about being judged for committing acts that were contrary to God’s will. But, how often do we think about Jesus judging us for things that we haven’t done? James tells us plainly, “To him who knows to do good and does not do it, to him it is sin” (Jas. 4:17). Jesus warned of judgment for not doing righteous deeds (Matt. 25:31-46). God help us to not omit acts of obedience in our lives! – DS

Striped parking lots

Do you think the stripes in a parking lot are important? Some folks who have trouble parking straight might suggest removing them to make parking easier. Do you know when a parking lot is most chaotic? It’s when there are no stripes. Without stripes to designate where to park, drivers park anywhere and in any way they choose. Oftentimes, fewer cars are able to park, as drivers take up more space with their cars. It’s amazing how the lines make us more efficient.

Lines in a parking lot provide the standard. While some folks don’t like rules, this one illustration helps us to see that they are actually to our benefit. Now compare that with the Bible. God has painted “lines” in the parking lots of our lives, to indicate where to go and where not to go. As with anything, some folks would like to move or even remove those “lines” to make life “easier.” However, it is where people have totally rejected God’s “lines” that the most chaos exists.

Are you parking inside God’s “lines”? Your life will be more productive and successful! – DS

6 “Small” Things That Erode Marital Trust

by Adam Faughn

Trust is the taproot of marriage. A marriage that is thriving is one that is built upon godly commitment. While every husband and every wife will make mistakes, when those mistakes cause distrust to build, the marriage is slowly eroding.

Sadly, there are some who think they can keep from doing the “big” stuff that would break marital trust (have an affair, for example), but they fail to see the “small” things that are slowly eroding the trust in their marriage. Many even do some of these things intentionally, just to have their “own life” on the side. (Which, by the way, goes against the very fabric of marriage.)

What are some of these things? Here are 6 things that some may think are small, but that can be eroding the very taproot of your marital trust.

1. Withholding Information. I wanted to lead with this because it may be the most common, and most difficult to break. Each person in a relationship is going to be privy to information that could (literally) be difficult for the spouse. Often, we withhold that information, but we let that temptation grow. It becomes easier and easier to withhold what we think are minor details. All along, though, we are eroding open and full communication, which a marriage simply must have to thrive.

2. Pornography. An affair is trust breaking, but pornography is trust eroding. When (not if) a struggle with pornography is discovered, a spouse’s ability to trust will be thwarted. And it will not just be a struggle in the bedroom. The hidden life and covered tracks will be enough to show that communication has been broken at a deep level in the marriage.

3. Separate Finances. While I do think each spouse should have some money he or she can just spend and enjoy, there is no way a marriage can be healthy if he has “his accounts and bills” and she has “her accounts and bills.” As Dave Ramsey often states, “When you get married, you change pronouns.” It is now “our” money and “our” bills. While you both may be honest, having separate accounts leaves the door open to distrust and a lack of communication about shared values and goals.

4. Wandering Eyes. You may think, “Wait a minute. Didn’t he already talk about pornography?” I did, but what about when you are walking through the mall or downtown and your eyes take in the figure of every member of the opposite sex that walks by? Too many (and, let’s be honest, it’s usually us men) think there’s no harm in just looking, but a spouse will be harmed by wondering if you are doing more than just taking some “harmless” glance. And, by the way, don’t be surprised when your eyes wander toward magazines, computer screens, and maybe beyond.

5. Private Online Presence. Does your spouse know your Facebook password? What about your Twitter handle (every Twitter account)? Does he or she have open access to the people you have been chatting with? If not, why not? We can get so caught up on our cyber-world that we close out our spouse. Even if we are doing nothing harmful, there is a lack of trust there that is not just perceived. It is real.

6. “White” Lies. This is the most obvious, but still needs to be said. Often, to “protect” our spouse, we make up a little lie, a cover-up, a small fib. When the truth comes out, we just treat it almost as funny, and yank out the excuse that we were just trying to protect them. Instead, we harm them, because they begin to wonder what “bigger” truths we have hidden or just changed.

Honest. Trusting. Open.

Those words need to describe every aspect of the life of a husband and wife. It may force us to be a bit vulnerable before a fellow human being, but he or she is the person you made the choice to be vulnerable before, and to trust with your whole life.

Don’t erode that...not even in a small way. Instead, build it up every day.
