Personal Work Is Personal

It is easy for us to overlook the important role personal conversation has in the conversion of the world. We long for days like that Pentecost when the response to preaching resulted in 3,000 conversions. That was not the normal happening as the church grew. We must never overlook how often lives were changed when Jesus and the apostles had one-on-one conversations with others. The world will always be saved by the preaching of the gospel, but so much of that teaching involves private studies with others.

Jesus changed the lives of so many, but think of the fact that He personally talked with others. Is it possible that He changed more lives in personal contact than in His public teaching?

How did Nicodemus learn about Jesus? Obviously, he had heard of Him before he came at night to visit with Jesus, yet the change Jesus wanted him to make came about because of their personal conversation. That conversation changed Nicodemus. He learned about the new birth, which involves water and the Holy Spirit. We may have forgotten that the first person to hear the “Golden Text” of the Bible was this man who talked to Jesus at night! That text begins, “For God so loved the world that He gave...” Important contacts are so important!

The change in the life of short Zacchaeus did not happen as he talked to Jesus from the branches of the sycamore tree—it came about when Jesus went to his house and talked to him. There are so many who have been converted by private teaching sitting on sofas or around the kitchen tables.

There were ten lepers who met Jesus, but the one touched most was the one who was a Samaritan and who returned to thank Jesus. As he glorified God, Jesus talked to him about his faith and its place in salvation. It is so often in private teaching that one learns the true meaning of faith.

Jesus had individual conversations with Andrew and Peter (John 1:41); with Philip and Nathanael (John 1:43, 45); with John the Baptist about baptizing Jesus (Matt. 3:14-15); with the woman of Samaria (John 4:7); with the woman taken in adultery (John 8:4-11); with Matthew as he collected taxes and later in Matthew’s house (Luke 5:27-29); with the crippled man healed beside the pool, and Jesus later sought him out to teach him (John 5:13-14); and so many more!

What do we need to learn from this? It is very simple—private conversations so often change the lives of others. I urge you to pray that God will use you to privately talk to those around you, hopefully changing their lives. Is there any week better than this week to begin doing this!

Jesus possibly changed more privately than He did in public preaching

Are You a “Christian,” According to the New Testament?

If you look up the word “Christian” in a dictionary, you will find that the common use of that word today in our nation is “a person who believes in Jesus Christ” or “a person who exemplifies in his or her life the teachings of Christ.” As you consider those definitions, do they match what you think a Christian is? If we did a survey of what is the common idea of what a “Christian” is today, would you consider that to be an accurate definition? Or, would you suppose that the only acceptable understanding (and trustworthy source) of a “Christian” is one that comes from the New Testament, having been given by God Himself? Let’s look at what God tells us.

The word “Christian” is only found three times in the New Testament, and each passage is so instructive. In Acts 26:28, we learn that being a Christian requires a choice—it requires persuasion (involving a conveyance of information) and subsequent action (involving steps that move one from a state of non-Christian to “become” a Christian). In First Peter 4:16, we learn that one who is a “Christian” will live a holy life that may receive negative attention from some individuals, and to which a true “Christian” must respond by glorifying God and not feeling ashamed.

The third passage in which we find the word is Acts

11:26, which states, “And the disciples were first called Christians in Antioch.” The word “called” in this passage is the same Greek word used elsewhere in the New Testament of a Divine action (Matt. 2:11, 22; Luke 2:26; Acts 10:22; Heb. 8:5; 11:7). So, the disciples were identified by God and “called Christians” by God. Since the only one who can rightly identify and call someone a Christian is God, how does God say that one “becomes” or is made to be a Christian? Notice that Acts 11:26 reveals that those who are disciples of Christ are given the name of Christ—i.e., “Christian.” How does one “become” a disciple? Let God answer.

While God was on this earth in a human body, He gave this instruction: “Go therefore and make disciples of all the nations” (Matt. 28:19). Well, how is one “made” a disciple? Jesus continued by answering that question with these essentials: “baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all things that I have commanded you” (28:19-20). One is made to be a disciple of Christ, and thus made to be a Christian, by being baptized according to the teaching of the New Testament.

While man may have certain ideas of what a Christian is, it is imperative that we go to the Bible and let God teach us. A “Christian” is one who has made the choice to be baptized and to live a holy life in unashamed service to the Lord.

It is imperative that we go to the Bible and let God teach us

“I, The LORD, Do Not Change”

An absolute truth is an anchor, something that never changes despite the circumstances. God has made our world with millions of constants on which we depend, principles that science later established as laws. The Psalms talk about the Sun always passes in its orbit, and the stars, that man has depended on for thousands of years for travel, have never changed (Psa. 19:4). It would be horrible to imagine living in a world where every day the rules changed. One day there was gravity and the next there was not. One day a boat would float and the next it wouldn't. One minute a plane could fly, the next it couldn't. We would live in terror and confusion. We overlook a blessing of God that everyone shares. God does not change. His world He made does not change. God makes a statement concerning His immutability: “I, the Lord, do not change” (Mal. 3:6). The next verse He says, “From the days of your fathers you have turned aside from My statutes and have not kept them” (Mal. 3:7). God says that we are the ones that change. I am thankful that “God is not a man, that He should lie, Nor a son of man, that He should repent; Has He said, and will He not do it? Or has He spoken, and will He not make it good?” (Num. 23:19).

We can take comfort in the constant nature of God. We can trust that He will always be just. “Therefore the LORD longs to be gracious to you, and therefore He waits on high to have compassion on you. For the LORD is a God of justice; how blessed are all those who long for Him” (Isa. 30:18). “For the LORD loves justice and does not forsake His godly ones; They are preserved forever, but the descendants of the wicked will be cut off” (Psa. 37:28).

We can trust in His faithfulness. “If we are faithless, He remains faithful, for He cannot deny Himself” (2 Tim. 2:13). “Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering, for He who promised is faithful” (Heb. 10:23).

We can trust in His Holiness. “For thus says the high and exalted One Who lives forever, whose name is Holy, ‘I dwell on a high and holy place, and also with the contrite and lowly of spirit In order to revive the spirit of the lowly and to revive the heart of the contrite’” (Isa. 57:15). “You shall be holy, for I Am holy” (1 Pet. 1:16).

It is possible for this list to continue. The heart can take comfort in our God that doesn't change. He works with His creation with impartiality (1 Pet. 1:17)—an overlooked blessing in the lives of His saints and in sinners. All of creation receives this blessing from God. He is an anchor, an absolute in the world of men that wish to change, corrupt, and redefine all that God has set in motion.

All of creation receives this blessing from God.

“I think I should...”

“I think I should talk to people about the gospel. I think I should invite people to worship. I think I should ask someone if they'd like to have a Bible study. I think I should check on and encourage folks from church. I think I should tell the elders how much I appreciate what they do. I think I should study my Bible more often and pray more diligently.” Question: Is thinking I should do something the same as actually doing it? Is it good enough to think it but not do it?

Compare these thoughts: “I think I should eat more vegetables. I think I should get some exercise. I think I should reduce my calorie intake.” We realize that thinking we should do these things is not the same as actually doing them, and no benefit comes until action is taken.

There are things we know that we need to do as a Christian. Knowing is different than doing. May each of us examine ourselves and take this day as an opportunity step out of our comfort zone and act on our knowledge. The best part is that the Lord will help us (Phil. 4:13)! – DS

Delete may be better than send

Have you ever sent an email or text and then thought, “I shouldn't have done that...I shouldn't have said that”? It is so easy today to say things to others—with the simple tap-tap-tap on a keyboard or device—that we should not say at all, and things that we would not normally say with our mouth in person.

The same verses that apply to words from our mouths also apply to words from our fingers. “In the multitude of words sin is not lacking, but he who restrains his lips (OR fingers) is wise” (Prov. 10:19). “For every idle word men may speak (OR type), they will give account of it in the day of judgment” (Matt. 12:36). “If anyone among you thinks he is religious, and does not bridle his tongue (OR fingers) but deceives his own heart, this one's religion is useless” (Jas. 1:26).

Our prayer should be, “Set a guard, O Lord, over my mouth (AND fingers)” (Psa. 141:3). If it is “one of those messages,” consider hitting Delete before you hit Send. – DS

CHURCH OF CHRIST

What Must I Do to Be Saved?

The Bible says...

1. Believe that Jesus is the Son of God

“Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and you will be saved” (Acts 16:31).

2. Repent of your sinful ways

“Repent therefore and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out” (Acts 3:19).

3. Confess your faith in Jesus

“If you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus...you will be saved” (Rom. 10:9).

4. Be immersed in water

“He who believes and is baptized will be saved” (Mark 16:16).

5. Commit to a lifetime of faithful service

“Be faithful until death, and I will give you the crown of life” (Rev. 2:10).
