Dealing With Adversity Like David Did

Do you want to know the heart of the man whose heart was like the heart of God? Read the book of Psalms, for they give such great insight into the heart of David. Look at the opening verses of Psalm 16. "Preserve me, O God, for in You I put my trust. You are my Lord, my goodness is nothing apart from You." Think about the humility of one who says that apart from God there was no goodness within him. Then, sense the faith of David as he openly affirms that his trust was in God.

Study the life of David in first and second Samuel. It was filled with adversity. Shortly after David killed Goliath, King Saul turned against him and on two occasions sought to take the life of this godly young man with a javelin. When this was unsuccessful, David fled into the wilderness, and Saul's army sought to find him to kill him. David was then forced to flee from Judah but found trouble in the nations where he sought refuge.

How did David deal with this? Perhaps the words of Psalm 16 will help us. He looked toward heaven and prayed that God would preserve him. He showed his total commitment to the Lord when he said, "For in You I have put my trust." Other translations render the word preserve as "protect me" or "keep me safe." The marginal reading in the NKJV is "watch over me." He was confident of God's presence and found comfort in knowing the nature of God.

After David became king, adversity came again in his life as the consequence of his sin with Bathsheba. Think of how you would have felt if your own son led a rebellion against you, seeking your life and your kingdom. Think of how you would have felt if four of your children died. Think of how you would have felt if one of your sons raped your daughter. How did David handle all of this? Look at those opening verses in Psalm 16. He looked upward and begged for God to preserve him, to protect him, to keep him safe and to watch over him.

Read those words again to see the difference in saying, "I trust You" and saying, "In You I have put my trust." Is it possible that one might say they trusted another and that trust be shallow in depth? However, those words "For in You I have put my trust" demand a deeper level of trust. They show a complete investment in God. This is the kind of heart David had.

So, the next time troubles come into your life, look upward and let David's words be part of your prayer. Ask God to preserve you, to protect you, to keep you safe and to watch over you. Trust Him but not on a shallow level. Do not just put your trust toward God, put your trust in God. Remember that God does not change. He will preserve you like He did David.

Remember that God does not change. He will preserve you like He did David

Dissecting a Servant's Heart

What is it that sets a servant-hearted person apart from everyone else? What could I do to become more servant-hearted? Jesus said that He "did not come to be served, but to serve" (Matt. 20:28). That demands introspection! Am I a true servant? I should want to be a servant! But how?

After many long years of sacrificial service to others, a faithful and active child of God passed from this life. To discover what made this Christian so servant-hearted, her heart was taken and dissected. Here is what was found. Does my heart look like this?

The first very noticeable feature of this servant's heart was that the outside was covered with eyes that were open and fervently looking for opportunities to serve. Does my heart look like that?

As the dissection opened this servant's heart, there were many interesting discoveries inside. The first overflowing compartment explored was full of amazing attitudes and qualities. Inside was an abundance of agape love, humility, compassion, mercy, peace, joy, happiness, satisfaction, willingness, eagerness. Does my heart have a compartment like that?

Further examination of this servant's heart found a huge collection of various items, including a stack of worn-out church directories, sick lists that had been cut out of church bulletins, a calendar that had intentionally-marked open times to search for people to serve, several sets of stationery and postage stamps, work gloves that were falling apart, a genuine smile, and a variety of small gifts to give away. Does my heart have these kinds of items in it?

One of the most intriguing finds in this servant's heart was a storehouse of favorite words, such as: "Yes!" "Thank you for asking!" "I'd love to!" "It is my pleasure!" "Whatever you need!" "I'm coming over right now!" "Please, let me!" "I'm praying for you!" "What else?" Does my heart have these expressions of service in it?

In the dissection process, it was interesting what was not found in this servant's heart. Certain things were noticeably absent, like selfishness, conceit, bitterness, envy, jealousy, a spotlight, a mirror, a trophy, a stopwatch and pathetic excuses. Does my heart have things like that in it?

After peeling back all of the layers and examining the treasure-trove of unique qualities permeating this heart, the very center was reached. The nucleus powering this servant's heart was opened. Do you know what was inside? Jesus! This servant's heart was focused on Jesus, was trying to live like Jesus, was trying to please Jesus. Again, I must wonder, does my heart look like that?

Friend, do you (do I) have a servant's heart?

Again, I must wonder, does my heart look like that?

Building Against the Storm (Part 2)

The storm is coming! The storm is coming! The bald weather guy is out reporting! Buy water, gasoline, batteries and food. Shutter up the house and wait. Some of us have been there. These actions are last-minute, knee-jerk reactions to the more imminent threat of danger. The experts say that most of our preparation can be done ahead of time so that we are not frantically running around with everyone else fighting over D batteries. This translates into our spiritual lives. How can we be ready? What are some things we can do ahead of the big storm?

It should be obvious that we can't just hear the warning. We must take action. "Therefore everyone who hears these words of Mine and acts on them..." (Matt. 7:24). James says, "But prove yourselves doers of the word, and not merely hearers who delude themselves" (1:22). Jesus said, "He who does the will of My Father who is in heaven will enter" (Matt. 7:22b).

Jesus mentions several things in the Sermon on the Mount that will keep us doing and not just hearing. He told us where to lay up treasure (Matt. 6:19-21). This treasure could not be taken away from us or distract us from our ultimate goal. It keeps our hearts focused on heaven. He told us to put the kingdom and God's righteousness first in our lives (Matt.

6:33). In doing so, our focus shifts from ourselves to the church. What can we do with our lives that is best for the bride of Christ? We don't seek after man-made righteousness but what God has established for us (Rom. 10:1-4). By heeding His words, we need not have anxiety for the future.

His words provide the basis for a solid foundation on which to build a life. The kind of life that will avoid being misled by false prophets—#fakenews (Matt. 7:15-20). A life that will seek the straight and narrow path that leads to eternal life (Matt. 7:13-14). With Christ as our foundation, we will live the kind of life that treats people differently than the world (Matt. 7:12). The kind of life that will pray and receive the good gifts God desires to give His children (Matt. 7:7-11). The kind of life that will not be judged by some harsh, inconsistent and hypocritical standard (Matt. 7:1-6) but by the pure law of liberty (Jas. 2:12). We will have the kind of life where necessities are provided (Matt. 6:30-34). Living in this way, we will be provided a barrier for materialism and anxiety (Matt. 6:22-29), remembering always that our acts of righteousness are to please God, not men (Matt. 6:1-18)—a righteousness that surpasses tele-evangelists and the guy in the hat (Matt. 5:20-28).

Maybe this was a reminder for us to keep our house in order. Maybe this was a wakeup call, an alert to imminent danger. Whatever it is, we can be ready for the storm.

We can be ready for the storm.

29% of the time

The northern kingdom of Israel had turned its back on God and was on the verge of falling. The Lord sent a rugged shepherd from the southern kingdom to plead with his rebellious people in Israel to repent and return to him. The prophet Amos warned that judgment was coming and they needed to "prepare to meet your God" (4:12). In the 146 verses of the book of Amos, we find the prophet using the expression, "says the Lord" (or an equivalent), in 43 verses (29% of the time). Think about that. 29 percent (and really it was more than that) of what Amos said to these lost people started or ended by him saying, "This is what the Lord says."

Today we are living in a nation that has turned its back on God and seems on the verge of falling. God has sent His spokespersons (i.e., us) "into all the [rebellious] world" to plead with them to repent and turn to God, for judgment is coming. Now, what percentage of what you say to others begins or ends with, "The Bible says..."? Amos left us a great template. Is there anything more important for us than to tell people, "Here's what the Lord says"? – DS

Killed for his devotion to sharing the Word

In 1525, William Tyndale produced the first translation of the Greek New Testament into the English language. For the first time ever, those who spoke English could read God's Word in their own language. The governing and religious authorities in England were furious, and they sought to do away with the English Bibles and with Tyndale. He was arrested in 1535 and was condemned for heresy in 1536. On October 6, 1536, Tyndale (at the age of 42) was bound to a stake, strangled by a noose and burned. All of this happened because the governing and religious authorities did not want God's Word in the hands (or hearts) of the people.

What would you be willing to do (and endure) to get the Word of God into the hands and hearts of people who so desperately need it? Would you give them a Bible, a tract, a booklet, a link to an article, a link to a sermon? Would you be willing to endure ridicule, exclusion, rejection in an effort to get the truth of God's Word to those who don't have it? Authorities today are not very favorable toward the spreading of God's Word, but will that hinder you? – DS

What Must I Do to Be Saved?

The Bible says...

1. Believe that Jesus is the Son of God

“Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and you will be saved” (Acts 16:31).

2. Repent of your sinful ways

“Repent therefore and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out” (Acts 3:19).

3. Confess your faith in Jesus

“If you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus...you will be saved” (Rom. 10:9).

4. Be immersed in water

“He who believes and is baptized will be saved” (Mark 16:16).

5. Commit to a lifetime of faithful service

“Be faithful until death, and I will give you the crown of life” (Rev. 2:10).
