I Heard You the First Time, Just Wanted to Hear it Again

You likely have seen it several times: that commercial where an older son and his aging father are working on a project together. The son spontaneously says, "I love you, Dad," but his father fails to understand what has been said and asks the son to repeat it. After that father buys the hearing aids which are the focus of the ad, they are seen again working on the same project when the son says, "I love you, Dad." The father asks the son what he said, so he says it again. The father's response is, "I heard you the first time, I just wanted to hear you say it again."

I have been thinking lately of another Father who might have the same feelings. Our heavenly Father hears every word we say, but have you ever thought that He might just want to hear us say it again? Is this one of the reasons He literally asks us to keep on asking, seeking and knocking? Is this possibly one of the reasons He asks us to assemble every week? We may offer the same prayers and sing the same songs, but He just wanted to hear us say it again. If an earthly father never tires of hearing a child express their love to him, what about our heavenly One?

Do you think God could ever tire of hearing us say, "Have Thine own way, Lord, have Thine own way. Thou art the potter I am the clay. Mold me and make me, after Thy will;

while I am waiting, yielded and still"? Imagine how earthly parents feel when their children say that they hope to someday be exactly like us. How much more our heavenly Father.

Can you imagine God ever tiring of hearing us say, "God, I am so sorry I let you down? Forgive me and I promise I will try to do better from now on"? The combination of pride and embarrassment may have kept that prodigal son nearly starving to death in a foreign land, but would his father have ever tired of hearing these words, though spoken again and again from a son's truly penitent heart?

Would God ever tire of hearing us say, "Thank you from the depths of my heart for all those times you have providently provided for me, and I failed to thank you. I regret I worried about it. Help me to trust you more"?

When we pray and plead with God, "I need your help. I tried to do it on my own, and I have made such a mess of it. God, please help me," would He not always respond, "I heard you say this before, but I just wanted to hear it again"?

If all of this is true, why are we so hesitant to say the words which would bring so much joy to Him? Have we forgotten how much He loves us? Next week, let's think about some of words in the songs we sing and see how much joy they bring to God, even though He has heard them before.

He heard us say
it the first time,
but He just wants to hear us
say it again

You Can Have a Great Bible Class, Too!

Every three to four years, I have the great privilege to teach a tough subject to our Senior High Bible Class. The topic of "Dating and Sexuality" is not your average "Bible class at church," and yet, it is one of the most needful subjects for our teens to hear from a strictly Biblical perspective. I believe this is my sixth time teaching this class, and it is always an experience—for the teacher and the students. Each Wednesday night is unique, and last night was no exception.

I want to commend the teens who were in class last night and tell everyone what made the class, in my opinion, one of the best. It was not the teacher last night who made it a great class. It was not the topic alone (the account of David and Bathsheba in 2 Samuel 11-12) that made it a great class. It was the students who were particularly "on" last night.

First, the class was great because of their Bibles. Most of the students brought their own Bible to Bible class! (Yes! You read that right!) And those who didn't, quickly grabbed one from the supply in the room or used an app on their phone! When I said, "Turn your Bible to 2 Samuel chapter 11," EVERY SINGLE ONE OF THEM DID! I knew, at that point, it was going to be a good night!

Second, the class was great because they were respectful. That's not to say that they have been disrespectful other nights, but their level of respect seemed heightened last night—their respect for the Bible, their respect for the teacher, and their respect for each other.

Third, the class was great because they were engaged. Each of them was listening and paying attention (more than they usually do already). They already knew the story of David and Bathsheba, but they seemed as interested in it as if they were hearing it for the first time.

Fourth, the class was great because they were participating. Beyond just being engaged, they were reading, they were responding, they were shaking their heads ("yes" and "no"). They were participating even without commenting out loud.

Fifth, the class was great because they did not get up and run out when it was over. They stood around and had fun talking with each other and laughing for several minutes after the final bell rang.

While I want to brag on our teens, I also want to share with all of us how to have great Bible classes. (1) Bring and use your Bible. (2) Be respectful. (3) Be engaged. (4) Participate. (5) Enjoy being with each other. Sunday morning and Wednesday night Bible classes are wonderful times to be together with our fellow Christians. Let's make them the best!

were particularly
"on" last night.

Healthy Teaching

There are some words that sound old and dusty—words that have fallen out of common use like, prithe, bibliopole, pythones, or leman. Sound doctrine is a phrase that is getting very dusty, like those afore mentioned hoary locutions. It is falling out of popularity to even talk about doctrine as it presupposes a moral standard. Sound is associated more with your cell phone and not reasoning. Paul told Titus, “speak the things which are fitting for sound doctrine” (Titus 2:1). Sound doctrine literally means healthy teaching. That is something of which we are in great need.

Titus was admonished to give them the information needed to be spiritually healthy in Titus chapter two. Paul gives similar instructions to other congregations. If we are striving to be in a healthy relationship with God, these would be some instructions we should heed.

Older men are to be temperate, dignified, sensible, sound in faith, in love, in perseverance (Titus 2:2).

Older women likewise are to be reverent in their behavior, not malicious gossips nor enslaved to much wine, teaching what is good (Titus 2:3).

So that they may encourage the young women to love their husbands, to love their children, to be sensible, pure, workers at home, kind, being subject to their own husbands, so that the word of God will not be dishonored (Titus 2:4-5).

Likewise urge the young men to be sensible; in all things show yourself to be an example of good deeds, with purity in doctrine, dignified, sound in speech which is beyond reproach, so that the opponent will be put to shame, having nothing bad to say about us (Titus 2:6-8).

Urge bond slaves to be subject to their own masters in everything, to be well-pleasing, not argumentative, not pilfering, but showing all good faith so that they will adorn the doctrine of God our Savior in every respect (Titus 2:9-10).

For the grace of God has appeared, bringing salvation to all men, instructing us to deny ungodliness and worldly desires and to live sensibly, righteously and godly in the present age (Titus 2:11-12).

Paul concludes this section of his letter to Titus reminding him of the price that was paid to “redeem us from every lawless deed” (Titus 2:14a). In doing this, He has purified a people for Himself that should be “zealous for good deeds” (Titus 2:14b). Healthy teaching leads us to a healthy spiritual life full of zeal for the work of the Lord. Are we lacking zeal? If we are, we may need to check on our spiritual diet. Dust off some the healthier things and make them a part of who we are, and the good works will follow.

Healthy teaching leads us to a healthy spiritual life.

“Truly this Man was the Son of God!”

There was a Roman centurion on duty during the crucifixion of Jesus. There is no way to know for sure how much he witnessed, but at the very least, he probably saw a brutally beaten and bleeding man barely make it to the crucifixion site. He saw this man thrown down and savagely nailed to that piece of timber. He watched as the crowd jeered Him, blasphemed Him and spit upon Him. He witnessed this man hanging there and enduring it all, without retaliating, but actually calling for their forgiveness and looking out for their good. Finally, he heard this thorn-crowned man cry out with a loud voice, “Father, into Your hands I commit My spirit.” “So when the centurion saw what had happened, he glorified God, saying, ‘Certainly this was a righteous Man!’” (Luke 23:47), and even exclaimed, “Truly this Man was the Son of God!” (Mark 15:39).

The cross of Jesus is “the power of God” (1 Cor. 1:18-25) to open man’s eyes to the Son of God and their desperate need for Him! The centurion had his eyes opened that day! Are you sharing the story of the cross? Everyone needs to see what he saw that day! – DS

“The last time I invited someone to my home was...”

Just out of curiosity, when was the last time you had someone over to your home? I only ask because the New Testament has some very direct things to say to Christians about this. “Seek to show hospitality” (Rom. 12:13). “Be hospitable to one another without grumbling” (1 Pet. 4:9). “Do not neglect to show hospitality to strangers, for by this some have entertained angels without knowing it” (Heb. 13:2; cf. Matt. 25:35, 38, 40, 43-45). Truly the Scripture emphasizes the need for every Christian to engage in this warm friendliness and not only elders (1 Tim. 3:2; Tit. 1:8) and widows (1 Tim 5:10).

Someone might say, “Well, my home isn’t big enough. My home isn’t conducive to guests.” Ok, but is that a loophole to obeying these commands of God? Could you meet folks somewhere other than your home? Could you “have coffee” with someone?

God’s directives are not optional. We must find a way to keep them...and enjoy doing it. – DS

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

What a blessing you all are to Kane and me. You sent cards, thought about us, and lifted our aching hearts up to the Lord in prayer. We can't thank you enough. Without the Lord and our church family, we could not have made it through this difficult time in our lives. Thank you for being there for us.

With humble hearts,
Kane & Fran Campbell
