Nighty Night, Sleep Tight

“Our friend Lazarus sleeps, but I go to wake him up” (John 11:11). You know this story and understand what Jesus meant, but His disciples failed to comprehend it. Lazarus was so sick that his sisters, Mary and Martha, sent word to Jesus. Judging by their words which both of them spoke—“Lord, if you had been here my brother would not have died”—the message was sent as a plea to Jesus to come to heal him.

Jesus was not in Judea but likely in Galilee, many miles away. However, Jesus did not immediately rush to go to Bethany. He waited two days before even starting His journey. Obviously the disciples knew of the message and said to Jesus, “Lord, if he sleeps he will get well.” They did not know that Jesus was speaking of the sleep of death.

The comparison between sleep and death can bring so much comfort to us. It should not surprise us that our God devoted an entire chapter in the Bible to help us see the parallel. Our view of death is changed when we compare it to sleep.

Sleep is peaceful and not painful. While, as death approaches our bodies may be filled with pain, there comes that time when there is a release and the transition takes place. Think about how this parallels sleep. We may toss and turn as we lie down, but ultimately the time comes when we lay aside all that troubles us and fall asleep, leaving all those troubles behind. Throughout His life Jesus had fallen asleep and on the cross He “slept” again, leaving all troubles behind when He said, “Father into your hands I commit My spirit.” There is a peace that comes when we sleep and there is the final peace which comes when we die.

There is hope in sleep and there is hope in death. Why do we set an alarm each evening? Because we have an expectation of waking up. The same is true in death, for we expect to literally hear Jesus’ voice to awaken us, based upon what He said to His disciples: “The hour is coming in which all that are in the graves will hear His voice and come forth” (John 5:28-29).

As a child the first prayer I learned was this prayer. “Now I lay me down to sleep. I pray the Lord my soul to keep. If I should die before I wake, I pray the Lord my soul to take.” I thank God that my mom and dad taught this to me, but my understanding is so much deeper now. I then understood about laying down to sleep, but I was not able to grasp all that is involved in asking Him to take my soul in death. I did not know about the angels who took another Lazarus to Abraham’s bosom (Luke 16:22). I did not fear going to sleep, nor do I need to fear death.

There are so many other parallels between sleep and dying. Think about them. It will change your view of death.

There are many parallels between sleep and death. Think about them.

Think About This Before I Act (Part 1)

Have you ever done something without thinking about it first? The obvious answer is that we all have. Multiple times. Of course, some things we just do automatically without giving it a single thought—like putting on our seatbelts. Some things we do instinctively—like trying to catch someone who starts to fall in front of us. There isn’t any forethought to actions like these—it’s just the way we’ve trained ourselves to respond.

But, there are other kinds of actions that do allow for some forethought and consideration before actually engaging in them. Of course, the range of the variety of these kinds of actions is extensive—such as, how I respond to a hateful message, what words I allow to escape from my mouth or my typing fingers, whether I choose to drink or lie or steal or gamble, what I do with my free time, who I befriend, who I marry, etc.

Whatever the action may be, there are some considerations that we should have before we engage in them. First, let us consider this all-important question: How will this affect my relationship with God? In all of the questions we may ask, there is none more important than this.

If I take this action, will God be pleased? My goal in life should be to “walk worthy of the Lord, fully pleasing Him” (Col. 1:10). As we consider some action, it would be wise to ask, “Am I now seeking the approval of man, or of God?” (Gal. 1:10).

If I take this action, will I be violating the revealed will of God? The Bible truly is “a lamp to my feet” (Psa. 119:105), and without it, I would have no idea what the will of God is (1 Cor. 2:10-13). Thus, I must be careful, in all I do, to “not turn aside to the right hand or to the left” (Deut. 5:32).

If I take this action, will it separate me from God, because it is a sin? Is what I am considering doing worth risking my soul (Matt. 10:28) and worth eternal separation from God in hell (Rom. 6:23)?

If I take this action, will it lead me to additional sinful actions? Jesus said that “whoever commits sin is a slave of sin” (John 8:34), for once I “let sin reign” in me, I will “obey it in its lusts” (Rom. 6:12) and give in to more sin. I need to stop the first one before it leads to more sin!

If I take this action, do I foresee that I will then need to ask for forgiveness? If I commit some sinful action with the plan to later ask God to forgive me, the Bible calls that (among other things) sinning “willfully,” for which a “fearful expectation of judgment” awaits (Heb. 10:26-27).

I need to ask myself, “What about me and God?”

How will this affect my relationship with God?

Who Am I?

This might be a question we have asked ourselves. In a quiet moment, alone with our thoughts. Maybe in a crowded place watching others. At some point we have had this conversation. How did it go? Was it a compilation of achievements? Was it a stroll through significant memories that shaped you? Perhaps it was a slideshow of all your faults and mistakes. Here are some things that do not define us.

We are not our jobs. That thing that we do to pay the bills is not who we are. It is among the first questions we ask new people we meet. It becomes the information that others use to pigeon hole us, but it is not who we are.

We are not our hobbies. Those things that occupy much of our free time and devotion. Others look at us and say he/she is a painter, sculptor artist, hunter, fisher, and the list goes on. More information used to help put us in a comfortable spot in the minds of others. Yet, we are not our hobbies.

We are not the sum of life's circumstances. I happened to be born on a certain continent. In a certain nation. With a certain skin tone. Into a certain family. In a certain economic status. I am not what life has thrown at me. While I may use those as part of my identity, I also may choose to absorb the cultural norms that are associated with those items. They are still not who I am.

We are not the sum of all our achievements. There are those that have a mental and/or physical trophy hall. They walk through it from time to time to remind themselves. Trophies earned, accolades received, plaques that have been presented all out on display. Look at me! But still, that is not who we are.

Others might have a darker hall. One where they keep all the failures. All the mistakes. All the times they have been berated, reprimanded, chastised are on display. Ready to be played again. To remind them that they are the sum of their failures. These failures hang around the neck. Little do they know, that is not who they are.

We are not even this body that we are in. We are a consciousness (mind/soul). We interact with the created world through the body that we were born into. God has given us the free will to choose how to respond to Him. Will we obey? Will we live within the parameters set for the body that we were given? If we rebel and are disobedient, we choose to use this higher form for a baser purpose. If we look at identity as the world does, we limit the beauty of what God has made us to be. God has shown us a way to live and identify ourselves. Anything else is lesser and base in comparison.

God has shown us a way to live and identify ourselves.

Can never do anything right

How many spouses have been told, "You can never do anything right"? How many children have been told, "You can never do anything right?" Such words are crushing! And while those exact words may not ever be spoken, a person's attitude and constant criticism can send that message loud and clear to another.

Sitting in the critic's chair is easy to do—whether that's in marriage, in the home, in the workplace, in the church, or anywhere else. Pointing the finger and suggesting that someone doesn't know what they're doing can make the critic feel accomplished and the recipient feel like a failure.

What if we all made a conscious effort to praise more than we criticize? What if we all endeavored to be strength-seekers instead of fault-finders? What a difference it could be to "build up one another" (1 Thess. 5:11), rather than "bite and devour one another" (Gal. 5:15)! – DS

Only the Scripture will do!

How can we convince people to follow God? How can we attract people to our church? How can we reach the people who seem to be the toughest to reach?

What if we could do the unimaginable? What if we could do the most difficult of all miracles? What if we could raise someone from the dead? Now that would get people's attention! Right?

In Luke 16, there was a man who thought that a person raised from the dead would be the very thing to convince his five brothers to change the course of their lives and turn to God. He was wrong! Abraham told him simply, "They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear them" (16:29). In other words, "Let them heed the Scriptures!" When the man pressed the issue, Abraham doubled down, telling him that if they do not heed the Scriptures, nothing else would matter (16:31). You see, only the Scripture will do! If we ever, ever stray from teaching the Scripture and using it as our only "drawing power," God will not bless us in our efforts, and then...nothing else will matter! – DS

What Must I Do to Be Saved?

The Bible says...

1. Believe that Jesus is the Son of God

“Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and you will be saved” (Acts 16:31).

2. Repent of your sinful ways

“Repent therefore and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out” (Acts 3:19).

3. Confess your faith in Jesus

“If you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus...you will be saved” (Rom. 10:9).

4. Be immersed in water

“He who believes and is baptized will be saved” (Mark 16:16).

5. Commit to a lifetime of faithful service

“Be faithful until death, and I will give you the crown of life” (Rev. 2:10).
