Prayers During the Sermon

In a recent evangelistic sermon, I heard David Sproule speak to those assembled and told them that he had been praying specifically for them. As I listened, I thought of the great impact it would have if every Christian did this. At that point of the sermon, I began to pray the same prayer.

Have we not all sung, “While we pray and while we plead; while you see your soul’s deep need; will you not my brother come?” However, is this true? How often do we sing these words, telling the lost who are in the assembly that we are praying and pleading with them to respond? Is it possible that we may never have been praying that the lost might respond and told them that is precisely what we were doing?

That decision made it so much easier to follow what was being said. I began to listen to the message from the viewpoint of the lost and in my prayers I became part of their lives.

When the church began, they were forbidden to preach or teach anyone about Jesus. It had to be exciting as they had seen the church grow into thousands of members. Consider what they did. They came together to pray for those who were teaching others, that they might boldly present God’s message (Acts 4:32). Can you imagine how this impacted those who prayed, whenever they next listened to the gospel being preached to the lost?

Almost every preacher has had to deal with those who listen to the sermon to find some misspoken word. Every week, when they exit, they usually tell the preacher how he could have improved the lesson. When individuals do this week after week you wonder how much they are truly worshipping during the preaching of the sermon. Constructive criticism is so helpful, but constant critiques of every sermon is so discouraging.

On the other hand, those comments and private emails are one of the greatest joys. Words like: “Thank you for this lesson, it really helped me”; “Thank you for the way you used the Bible, I am a better person because I heard it”; “I want you to know that I was praying for you today”; “Thank you. My friend was not here to hear this message, but I am sending a copy of it.”

Be honest. Be sincere. Be that person like Barnabas who helped Paul so much, but he did not have to be in the forefront to encourage.

So let me suggest you just do what I did. Pray for the preacher and the lost during a sermon. It changed me. So, when he preaches a lesson directed to Christians, do not pray for others, pray for yourself!

“While we pray and while we plead...” We sing it, but do we ever do it?

By David Sproule

A Chapter a Day

On Sunday, January 1, the 2023 theme for Palm Beach Lakes was introduced to the congregation, and it seems to have been received with excitement and readiness. The design is for the congregation to read through the New Testament together this year—a chapter a day.

Sometimes it is good to read through the whole Bible in a year—taking about three chapters per day for 365 days. It can also be beneficial to try to read through the whole New Testament in a shorter timeframe of 30 days—reading about nine chapters per day. But the focus for Palm Beach Lakes this year is to take our time walking through the New Testament together, gathering all we can, one chapter at a time. If a person reads five chapters per week, he will end up reading 260 chapters in a year. That happens to be the exact number of chapters that are in the New Testament.

To assist in the study this year, our elders have provided a copy of a study guide that includes some helpful information for each day’s reading. There are three helpful notes per chapter, which explain some aspect of the persons, places, doctrines or concepts in that chapter. There are some suggested markings to make in your Bible, to assist in later readings and study. There are three review questions for each chapter, which are designed to capture a key element in each chapter, and can be used to engage children in the study, as well. Each day has a verse for meditation and prayer that comes from that day’s chapter. Each week ends with a time of reflection, to look back on what has been read and to consider further studies that would be beneficial. The study guide is not the end-all or essential, but it is simply an aid in the effort of reading, understanding and enjoying Bible study.

The main thing is to spend time in the Word each day.

The goal this year is for both individual and collective growth. The collective growth will only be seen if there is individual growth. What does that mean? The more each individual Christian spends with God in His Word, the more like Jesus he becomes. Individually, he benefits. But, when a whole church is spending time with God in His Word (particularly in a collaborative effort of reading the same sections of Scripture), they all become more like Jesus, and the whole church benefits collectively. The early church was healthy because they collectively “continued steadfastly in the apostles’ doctrine” (Acts 2:42).

Will you do your part? Will you take a few minutes every day to read one chapter? Find what works for you. Use the study guide in a way that fits you. There’s nothing rigid about it. The main thing is to spend time in the Word each day. “A chapter of day keeps me on the Lord’s way!”

Conservative or Liberal?

The classifications of conservative or liberal are used to try to categorize the way people think about political, moral, and Biblical concepts. These two ideas are seen as being at odds with one another. When it comes to spiritual matters, we need to be both of these to be godly and pleasing to Him.

To be conservative is usually associated with maintaining traditional values and opposed to radical changes. In like manner we need to conserve those things that can't be changed. We need to conserve truth. The church is the "pillar and support of truth" (1 Tim. 3:15). Paul said that they were "not walking in craftiness or adulterating the word of God, but by the manifestation of truth commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God" (2 Cor. 4:2). We are also instructed to "stand firm and hold to the traditions which you were taught" (2 Thess. 2:15). The psalmist wrote concerning God, "Behold, you delight in truth in the inward being," and we should also (Psa. 51:6). It is clear that we should be concerned about conserving the pattern and set boundaries that God has ordained for us. Where God has spoken, we should not turn to the left or the right. We conserve what is truth. We shouldn't take away from it or make it more burdensome. The Scribes and Pharisees went too far with their ideas of conservation. They "taught as doctrine the commandments of men" (Matt. 15:9). They would also "tie up heavy burdens, hard to bear, and lay them on people's shoulders" (Matt. 23:2-4). This is going beyond what God has established and binding where God has not bound.

Being liberal can be a good thing. It just depends on what we are liberal with. If we are liberal with truth, boundaries set by God, or the practices and examples set by the early church, then that isn't good. Many have gone down the path of loosing where God has not loosed. However, if we are liberal with the things that God is liberal with, we find ourselves in the right place. God is liberal in love (John 3:16), grace (Rom. 5:20), patience and mercy (Rom. 9:22-24), forgiveness (Eph. 1:7), kindness (Titus 3:4-6), goodness (Psa. 31:19-20).

These are all attributes that we need to be liberal with, just as our heavenly Father (Luke 6:36; Matt. 6:15; Gal. 6:10). These are not easy things to do. It is easier to blame others, burn bridges, and cut people off in the name of righteousness. That is not the example we have from our Lord.

As we think about conservatism and liberalism, there are times that we need to be both and neither. If we let godliness be our guide, we find ourselves in more navigable waters—not trying to keep in step with the whims of men but with the absolutes of God in His word and His nature.

Let godliness be our guide in all things.

There's always another side

When hearing someone share one side of some incident or situation, it can be so easy to be drawn into their version of things and believe that is the only way of seeing things. It is so very critical when listening to someone at a time like that to remind yourself of two things.

First, there is a very good chance that YOU do NOT need to be hearing whatever is being said. There is a reason that God condemns slander (2 Tim. 3:3) and that He prescribes dealing with matters one-on-one (Matt. 18:15). It may be that you need to tell this person, "You don't need to be telling this to me. You need to go and talk to that person directly."

Second, there is a very good chance that there is another side to this story that you are not hearing and would change your perspective and your conclusions. There is a reason that God said, "The first one to plead his cause seems right," and "He who answers a matter before he hears it, it is folly and shame to him" (Prov. 18:17, 13). May God help us to be careful when others speak! – DS

Doing right is not always easy

There is a difference between right and wrong. The world, under the influence of the evil one, may try to convince you otherwise, but the God who made us defines right and wrong, and He puts within us the sense of right and wrong. Although children do not have "knowledge of good and evil" (Deut. 1:39), as they mature, they grow to both know it and distinguish it.

When Jesus came, He was determined to "fulfill all righteousness" (Matt. 3:15). Whatever was "right," He was going to do it, even when His good friend (John) didn't think He really needed to do at least one "right" thing. Some folks today (maybe even friends or family) may not think that "a certain right thing" is all that big of a deal, but if God does, then it should be a big deal to you.

Doing right is not always easy. But, it puts you in good company—with Jesus and His faithful followers. And, most importantly, it should be a constant reminder to you that only "the RIGHTEOUS" will enter into "eternal life" (Matt 25:46). It is always right to do right! Always! – DS
